Strong Performance

- The Government of South Africa has ensured tenure security for rural populations. Land titling is common and land markets function well. Policy promotes equitable access to common property resources.
- South Africa instituted a separate budget line for nutrition, enabling transparency and accountability for spending.
- South Africa has devised a National Nutrition Policy/Strategy.
- Policymakers in South Africa benefit from regular nutrition surveys that are statistically representative at national level. The last survey was published in 2016.
- The Government has fully enshrined the International Code of Marketing of Breastmilk Substitutes into domestic law.
- The Government of South Africa promotes complementary feeding practices.
- 95% of the population of South Africa in 2015 has access to an improved drinking water source.
- In South Africa 94% of women aged 15-49 were visited at least once during pregnancy by skilled health personnel in 2016.
- In South Africa, constitutional protection of the right to food and the right to social security is strong.

Areas for improvement

- Spending on agriculture (1.2% of public spending in 2016), does not meet government commitments set out in the African Union's Maputo Declaration (10% of public spending).
- South Africa's spending in its health sector (14.1% of public spending in 2015) is close to, yet not fully meeting government commitments set out in the African Union's Abuja Declaration (15% of public spending).
- In South Africa, the law gives women and men equal economic rights and equal legal access to agricultural land. However, these laws are not effectively enforced and discriminatory practices against women continue, increasing their vulnerability to hunger and undernutrition.
- Even though South Africa has developed a National Nutrition Policy/Strategy and clear time-bound nutrition targets, a multisectoral and multistakeholder policy coordination mechanism is still lacking.
- The Government of South Africa has achieved two high doses of vitamin A supplementation for only 42% of children in 2013.
